Jim's Jottings

In a 1976 interview with Jimmy Carter, Bill Moyers asked him, "What drives you?"

Carter responded: "I don't know. . . exactly how to express it. As I said, it's not an unpleasant sense of being driven. I feel like I have one life to live. I feel like that God wants me to do the best I can with it. And that's quite often my major prayer. Let me live my life so that it will be meaningful."

Later in the interview, Moyers asked Carter, "What do you think you are on earth for?"

Carter responded: "I don't know. I could quote the Biblical references to creation, that God created us in his own image, hoping that we'd be perfect, and we turned out to be not perfect but very sinful. And then when Christ was asked what are the two great commandments from God which should direct our lives, he said, "To love God with all your heart and soul and mind, and love your neighbor as yourself." So I try to take that condensation of the Christian theology and let it be something through which I search for a meaningful existence."

Moyers then asked Carter, "How do you know God's will?" Carter replied, "Well, I pray frequently. Not continually, but many times a day. When I have sense of peace and just self-assurance—I don't know where it comes from—that what I'm doing is the right thing, I assume, maybe in an unwarranted way, that that's doing God's will."

I have always been challenged by the simplicity of Jimmy Carter's faith and his understanding of his role in the purposes and will of God. He strives for a meaningful life, but realizes that that kind of life can only be found in loving God with our whole being and our neighbor as ourselves. He knows that only by nurturing an ongoing relationship with God can he hope to live as God desires.

Having a full and meaningful life is not primarily about believing certain propositions. Having a full and meaningful life involves committing oneself fully into the path of discipleship to which Jesus calls us; a path of drivenness to love God fully and our neighbors without reservation.

Summer Study Series Continues

Our study of Keith Stiwell's book, Being A Disciple Community concludes this Wednesday evening at 6:00 p.m.

During this week's session, we will take some time to review and share our thoughts about what we have learned, as well as to share the ways this study has challenged us as we seek to be a disciple community.

MISSION PARTNERS

Coming on Wednesday Evenings

On Wednesday evenings this Fall, we will have the opportunity to learn about some of the mission partners we support through our Direct Missions Offering. In addition to learning about their work, we will discover ways we can be involved personally.

In August, we will have the opportunity to hear from Keith Stillwell with Together for Hope (8/16) and Scarlette Jasper with Olive Branch Ministries (8/30)

Join us for dinner at 5:30, followed by this unique opportunity to become more aware of and involved in the mission of our church.

PRAYER GUIDE

August 6, 2023

*Glorious God, your generosity waters the world with goodness, and you cover creation with abundance. Awaken in us a hunger for the food that satisfies both body and spirit, and with this food fill all the starving world; through your Son,
Jesus Christ, our Savior and Lord.*
