

The 32nd Habitat for Humanity house for the Baptist group is scheduled to begin. Lyndon Baptist Church is a participant with other Baptist churches in the Louisville area to build a Habitat for Humanity home each year.

The house is located at 6509 Hackel Drive and the homeowner is Andrea Clayton.

Andrea is a 23-year old Louisville native, who has dreams of becoming a labor and delivery nurse. She has a son, Aerion, who attends Auburndale Elementary School.

Tired of ever-increasing rent prices and loud neighbors, Andrea decided to apply for a home through Habitat, and was approved on her first try. She is looking forward to the stability owning her own home will provide.

This is an opportunity for our congregation to work alongside the homeowner to make it possible for her family to have a home. It is exciting to be part of this important project and to bear witness to God's love in a tangible way.

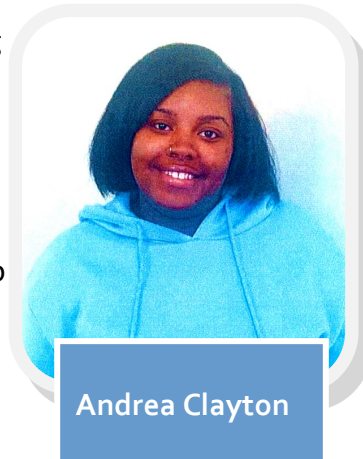

There are several ways you may wish to participate in this mission project. First, Lyndon will be providing lunch on Friday, March 8th. You may wish to provide money toward the purchase of the meals, or volunteer to deliver and serve the meals on-site.

Second, we plan to provide physical labor for the building of the house. Persons of all skill levels are invited to participate in the construction of the house.

Begin now to consider how you will be part of this mission opportunity. We will provide updated information in the Carillon. If you have questions, and or wish to volunteer, please contact Laurice Rogers or Vera Ruwe.

This is an exciting time for Andrea and her family.

Begin now to pray for her and for everyone who new home possible.

Jim's Jottings

*"The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom;
all who practice it have a good understanding."*

—Psalm 11:10 NRSV

A local colleague began an article she wrote for GoodFaith Media this way: "I love being a Baptist, because being Baptist is all about freedom . . ."

While I have no quarrel with the notion that Baptists have been leading proponents, in the religious, political, and social spheres, for things like freedom of conscience, freedom of religion, freedom from oppression, political and economic freedom, and the freedom of each individual to be who God created them to be; I do get a little concerned when we make freedom the primary good.

Unrestrained freedom can lead not only to chaos, but to real harm to persons and groups. If we are operating under the notion that we are free to do whatever we want to do, and that no one can question us or tell us otherwise, then we have entered the wild west of morality and behavior where the only limit on individual or group behavior is the wants and desires of the individual or group.

It is to that abuse of freedom, that distortion of the role freedom plays in the life of the believer and the church that Paul addresses in 1 Corinthians 8:1-13 (this week's Epistle reading). While Paul does not deny the freedom of every believer to follow the call of God on their own life, he pleads with the Corinthians to not make freedom their primary good, or principle value. He urges them to consider how their actions and decisions will impact the faith of others. I would imagine if Paul wrote to a bundle of 21st Century Baptists, we might find ourselves chafing under his counsel.

For early Baptists, freedom was not an end to itself. Freedom was a means through which persons could authentically profess Jesus Christ as Lord. Free from the coercion of the state, Christians could follow the call of Christ according to the Scriptures and the leading of the Holy Spirit. We were all about freedom for all, not so we could do whatever we felt like doing, without restraint; but so that we could listen to God's voice and follow it as best we understand it.

Being a Baptist is all about following Jesus, freely and without coercion. The freedom we advocate serves that end.

Gary Hicks

After the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity Prayer Service, many of you expressed a desire to get together with our sister churches more often. Well, you are in luck!

Our next opportunity to worship together will be on February 18, at 7:00 p.m, when we are invited to join with St. Margaret Mary Church in their annual Taize Prayer Service.

This annual Lenten service is a quiet, simple service of prayer, scripture, and song. This meditative service is a wonderful way to start the season of Lent.

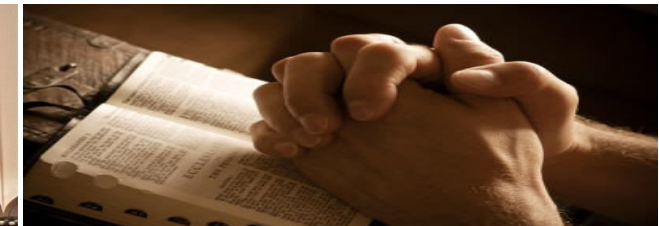

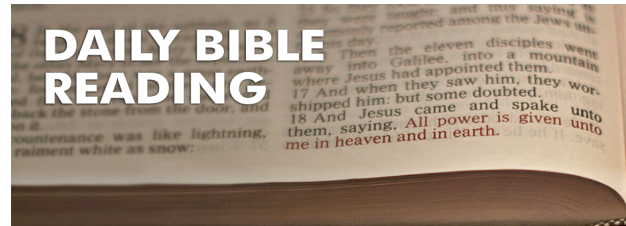

If you would like to contribute musically as a member of the choir or instrumentally, you are invited to a rehearsal at St. Margaret Mary on Tuesday, February 6th at 7:00 p.m. in their sanctuary. For more info contact Holly Smith— hsmith@stmm.org
